JASPER & SHOASL

MAIL EXPRESS & STAGE ROUTE

A. STEINHAUSER

U. S. Contractor for the Shoal and Jasper Mail Express.
We will run a good road, with an excellent team, and a reliable driver, and is prepared to convey passengers and express matter between the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad at Shoal, and Jasper, or way places, on the route, on the most reasonable terms. Passengers going East will find this the cheapest, as well as most pleasant road, at all times, as they save several miles travel. Persons sending or receiving expressage of any kind may depend on having it carefully handled, and promptly and safely delivered. His stage leaves Jasper every Friday morning at 6 o'clock, and arrives at Shoal in time to connect with the railroad trains either way; returning leaves Shoal at 7 o'clock.

A. STEINHAUSER.

The Foot-steps of Decay,

FROM THE SPANISH.

—o—

O! let the soul its slumbers break—
Arouse its senses and awake,

To see how soon

Life in its glories glides away,

And the stern foot-tops of decay

Come stealing on.

And while we view the rolling tide,

Down which our flowing minutes glide

Away so fast,

Let us the present hour employ,

And deem each future dream a joy

Already past.

Let not vain hope deceive the mind—

No happier let us hope to find

To-morrow than to-day.

Our golden dreams of yore were bright,

Like them the present shall delight—

Let them decay.

Our lives like hast'ning streams must be,

That into one engulphing sea

Are doomed to fall—

The sea of death whose waves roll on

O'er king and kingdom, crown and throne,

And swallow all.

Alike the river's lordly tide,

Alike the humble rivulets glide

And that sad wave;

Death levels poverty and pride,

And rich and poor sleep side by side

Within the grave.

Our birth is but a starting place;

Life is the running of the race,

And death the goal:

There all our glittering toys are bought—

The path alone, of all unsought,

Is found of all.

See then how poor and little worth

Are all these glittering toys of earth

That lure us here!

Dreams of a sleep that death must break

Alas! before it bids us wake,

We disappear.

Long ere the damp of earth can blight,

The check'd pure glow of red and white

Has passed away.

Youth shrill, and all was heavenly fair,

Age came and laid his finger there,

And where are they?

Where is the strength that spurned decay?

The step that roved so light and gay,

The heart's blithe tone?

The strength is gone, the step is slow,

And joy grows wearisome and wan,

When age comes on.

WOMAN AND WOMEN.

Enthusiastic "piece" on Brooms and Ket'tles.

We educate our boys with special reference to the business we wish them to pursue.

If they are to be physicians, they must study medicine; if preachers, they must read law.

Who would put a son to unuseful or pernicious establishments who was ignorant of book-keeping, knew nothing of goods, and had no idea of prices?

Who, but a fool, would send a young man to erect a house for him who was entirely uninformed in regard to architecture, timber and tools?

What insensibility would it be to select one to superintend a farm who never saw a plow nor knew the difference between honest and dishonest labor?

Yet scarcely less unwise is the course pursued by many parents with their girls.

They permit them to grow up in utter ignorance of those things which are essential to their usefulness and happiness in after life. They give them a purely literary and social training, so that they not only have no knowledge, but none of the practical arts which are of

constant service in the management of a home.

No girl should consent to be married until she understands the thorough accomplishment in the science of house-keeping.

Certainly no man of limited means should be allowed to marry a woman of limited means who has no experience in the use of a needle, a broom, and a kitchen.

Such being our record, we claim the right to express, with freedom, our opinion in regard to her position, necessities and responsibilities. We have some plain things to say on the homely topic of domestic training. It may be well for us to declare in the outset that we warmly favor the liberal education of our girls. They are capable of the highest culture. As a rule, they can study the sciences and the languages as successfully as the boys, and it is important that they should have the advantages in managing intelligently her husband's knowledge and moral discipline which are essential to the happiness and happiness in after life. They give them a purely literary and social training, so that they

not only have no knowledge, but none

of the practical arts which are of

constant service in the management of a home.
